What is The National Conference on Keyboard Pedagogy?

The National Conference on Keyboard Pedagogy offers four days of inspiration, innovation, and challenge for keyboard teachers at the Doubletree Chicago-Oakbrook Hotel on August 1-4, 2007. The conference, entitled Tradition and Transformation: Learning, Playing and Teaching Outside the Box, promises to live up to its motto "Extraordinary results with Every Student." Each time, participants have left saying "this was the best conference ever."

This piano pedagogy conference features outstanding leaders both inside and outside of the field of music. Visionary keynote addresses are by Marianne Uszler, Dr. Barry Bittman, Angela Myles Beeching, Dr. Robert Duke. Workshops are presented by favorite experts such as Jane Magrath, Catherine Rollin, Dr. Kathleen Riley, and Joyce Grill. Live and videotaped teaching demonstrations are presented by Dr. William Westney, Dr. Paul With, and Janet Hart Johnson. This is just a small sample of who will be presenting.

There will be 800-1000 attendees at the conference!

The attendees include prominent pedagogy faculty of major colleges, piano teachers from the United States and abroad, college students, MTNA piano winners and their families, and publishers and technology companies.
